Bringing the Cheetah back to India

The idea of reintroducing cheetahs to India has been a topic of debate for conservationists and wildlife experts. Historically, cheetahs were native to India, but they became extinct in the country in the 1940s due to various factors such as hunting and habitat loss. Reintroducing them would require careful planning and considerations to ensure the ecosystem can support their presence and protect them from potential threats. cheetah program was held on 15 Sept 2022
